SCHOOL CHILDREN GIVING OPERETTA

AT SCHOOL AUDITORIUM THUR. MARCH 26TH.

"What's The Matter With Sally?" is the title of a fine operetta to be given at the School Auditorium Thursday evening, March 26th, by children of the grades. This will be under direction of Miss Ireta LaSalle, teacher of music in the schools.

The program will consist of special numbers, besides the operetta, beginning with special music by selected groups from the first three grades.

The scene of the operetta is the St. Thomas Orphanage. Sally, a spoiled child from a wealthy parentage is left at the orphanage by the parents for two weeks while the parents are on a visit to New York City. During this time Sally learns to be unselfish and that to have friends one must be friendly to herself. The cast of characters appearing are as follows:

Cast of Characters:
Sally.....Betty Jane Welsh
Peter (Orphan).....Dorothy Peck
Agnes.....Agda Johnson
Betsy.....Nora Wheeler
Prudence.....Elizabeth Hughes
Miss Jeffries, a teacher.....Beatrice Trudeau
Mrs. Donnelly, (Sally's Mother).....Ada Kidston

NELS MICHELSON DIES IN DETROIT

WAS PIONEER CITIZEN OF THIS CITY.

Nels Michelson, a former citizen of Grayling, passed away at his home 918 Boston boulevard, Detroit, Saturday morning, March 14th, after a brief illness from pneumonia. He was 84 years of age last November. Mr. Michelson, together with Rasmus, daughter of Lars Jensen.

NELS MICHELSON.

mus Hallen of this city and E. N. Salling were the original members of the Salling & Hanson company of this city and ever since that organization began, in 1869, had made his home in Grayling until the year of 1918, when he and his sons moved to Detroit.

Nels Michelson was born in Denmark November 25th, 1840. He attended the government schools until 15 years of age, when he was bound out to a farmer, under whom he served three years, receiving for the first year $5.00 and the second year $10.00 for his services, besides his board. He worked as a farm hand until 1864, when he entered the Danish army in the war between Denmark and Prussia, and was taken prisoner at the battle of Debbel, March 17th, 1864. The Prussians put the prisoners to work first making powder bags, but they made such long stitches that the bags would not hold powder, and the Prussians set them to wheeling sand for the fortifications. When the war closed he returned home and worked as a farm hand until 1866, when he came to America.

Cholera broke out on shipboard and the vessel was held two months in quarantine at New York, over 200 of the passengers dying of the disease. The detention left him penniless and he went direct to his brothers at Racine, Wisconsin. Remaining there only a short time, he went to Manistee, Michigan, and went to work in a lumber camp at $1.00 per day. He worked there two years as swamper, driving teams, etc. He then bought a team and took contracts hauling supplies to lumber camps.

In 1869 he joined with R. Hanson, they having together some $1,500, buying an outfit and taking a contract for getting out logs. Hard luck of various sorts culminated with the failure of a bank at Manistee with $1,000 of their money, left them stranded at the end of two years. They started again on credit with better success, and after a year began buying small tracts of pine land, the timber which they cut and sold, increasing their operations each year, and after a time joining with E. N. Salling, of Manistee, Michigan, the co-partnership of Salling, Hanson & Company, of Grayling, Michigan, was formed.

In 1880 the Michelson & Hanson Lumber Co. was organized with Mr. Michelson as president, and in 1892 a large mill was erected at Lewiston, Michigan. The two concerns, the Michelson & Hanson Lumber Company and Salling, Hanson & Company owned over 50,000 acres of standing timber in northern Michigan and have cut some 60 thousand acres. In 1895 Mr. Michelson purchased some 7,000 acres of land in Roscommon County, near Houghton Lake, where he made into a stock farm, where he had at times a thousand head of cattle and several hundred sheep.

At one time he was president of Crawford County Exchange Bank of Grayling, and had best sugar interests at Bay City, and was a director in the J. A. Jamison Lumber Company of St. Ignace, Michigan. He was a director of the Johannesburg Lumber Company, of Johannesburg, Mich., and also the head of the Michelson Lumber Company, at Michelson, Michigan. Mr. Michelson's society connections were Masonic, including the higher degrees, was a member of the National and State Lumbermen's associations, and of the Michigan Republican club. He was married at Racine Wisconsin, in the year 1870 to Miss Margre-

CONVICTED OF TURPENTINING DOG

LYLE BENNETT, CHARLES TIF- FIN AND AUBREY BLAINE PAY FINES.

The case of Lyle Bennett, Charles Tiffin and Aubrey Blaine, charged with cruelty to dumb animals, held in Justice court last week Friday and Saturday attracted large attendance. The court room was well filled thru-out the long drawn-out trial.

The people were represented by Prosecuting Attorney Nellist and the defendants by Attorney E. M. Harris of West Branch.

The alleged act occurred at the Tiffin home Saturday, March 7th. The complaint was made by Mrs. Ina Adams, owner of one of the dogs.

The latter was the first witness appearing for the prosecution in the case of Bennett. She stated in part as follows:

At the time mentioned she stated to the court and the jury that she saw Bennett with the dog at Tiffin's and he was down on his knees holding the dog. The other two defendants and one other chap that it appears just happened along at the psychological time, were grouped in front of Bennett. Finally he let the dog go and it started out a barking and yipping, cutting up unnatural antics, standing on its head and sliding and jumping about, and frothing at the mouth. And also the boys tried to sic another dog onto it. She called the dog and caught it in her hand and carried it to the wood shed. She said the dog smelled strongly of turpentine. The dog was a young pup that they got last spring. Mr. Harris, in his cross examination, tried every conceivable lawyers' art to try and mix her up on her testimony but it appears, was unable to do so.

Mr. Adams, husband of the complaining witness stated his wife called his attention to the fact that the boys were doing something to the dog and he looked over to the place where the boys were, and saw practically the same things that were testified to by his wife.

Mrs. Sammons, living next door to the Tiffin home said that her husband left home at 6:00 a. m. and that she was up at that time and that she heard the boys about the yard a long time before she knew what they were doing. Looking out she saw the three boys and saw the Blaine boy have hold of the dog's neck and throw it in the midst of a group of boys. They set the other dog onto the Adams dog, but the little dog wouldn't fight and ran away. Next she went to the front window and saw one dog running across the street with a tin can tied to its tail.

A short time later she looked out of the window and saw the Adams dog turning somersaults, turning over and over and sliding. Later she said she saw Lyle (Bennett) hide a bottle and she found it to contain turpentine. The bottle and contents were introduced in evidence, after being identified as the one she found in the lumber pile.

Sheriff Bobenmeyer was called to the Adams home where he said he found the dog and that there appeared to be in misery. The dog was howling and frothing at the mouth.

Mrs. Samuel Johnson said she lived near to the Tiffin home and that morning saw the Tiffin girl come out of the house and chase the boys and dog off the porch with a broom.

Mrs. Joseph Fournier said she saw Charles Tiffin and two other boys with two dogs. They tried to make the dogs fight.

This closed the testimony for the prosecution. Charles Tiffin was the first witness for the defense, and said that the boys (Blaine and Bennett) were at his home and tried to get the Adams dog and Fenton dog to fight. Bennett was playing with the dog but did not use any turpentine and that there was no turpentine and when he was there, the dog of the other boys had turpentine that he knew of, he said. In the cross examination he said that he had been convicted twice, for being drunk. When asked if he had ever been convicted for disturbing a religious meeting he replied that he had.

Aubrey Blaine said he saw the dogs but did not know whose dogs they were and did not see anyone pour turpentine on the dogs. In the cross examination that he gave the bottle to Bennett, he admitted having turpentine but said he always had turpentine on hand to put on bruises whenever he got hurt in the lumber yards.

Lyle Bennett, the first one of the three boys that was on trial testified in his own behalf. He said that the dogs came along while they were at Tiffin's but he did not see anyone put turpentine on the dog. He said that they rubbed the noses of the dogs together trying to make them fight. Blaine admitted on cross examination, having been arrested before, and was asked by the Prosecutor if he hadn't also been arrested for breaking into the little store next to the Bank, and he admitted that he had. George Barber, who was at Tiffin's at the time the boys were there and that he saw Bennett, Tiffin and Blaine and said that they rubbed the dogs' noses together trying to make them fight.

Norman Tiffin, and uncle of Charles Tiffin, said he saw no boys and first heard that the boys were in trouble when the warrants were served. Said he saw the dog in the shed at about 6 p. m. that Saturday and that it appeared to be quite well.

Arthur Bennett, father of Lyle, said he saw the dog the next day and that it seemed all right.

Lyle Bennett was recalled to the witness stand and said that the Adams dog and three or four others were running about in the yard back of Tiffin's house and that they tried to make the dogs scrap. That was all that was done. Didn't see any dog standing on its head nor sliding, nor frothing at

Principal Events In Grayling 25 Years Ago

INTERESTING ITEMS OF NEWS GATHERED FROM THE FILES OF THE AVALANCHE OF 25 YEARS AGO.

Judge Coventry sold his team Monday to George Langevin.

W. Fairbotham brought in two fine red fox pelts and one silver gray that was a beauty.

A boy baby came to live with Mr. and Mrs. Will Vallad in Maple Forest last week Tuesday.

T. A. Carney and wife were called to Bay City Monday by the death of his sister-in-law.

Chris Ackerman caught a block from the bolting saw in the mill one day last week and broke a rib.

Abe Joseph returned from the hospital at Detroit Monday afternoon happily recovered.

The mercury dropped from 28 degrees above zero Sunday to 14 degrees below during the night.

The Presbyterian Aid Society will give a fifteen cent supper at the W. R. C. hall, Thursday, March 15. Hoped that all will turn out.

Miss Althea McIntyre came up from her school at Roscommon Friday evening to spend Sunday at home.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Hanson went to Mt. Clemens to see if the waters of those famous springs would exercise his rheumatism.

Last season was a poor one in this vicinity to secure seed corn. Farmers should watch out and get perfect seed in time for planting.

N. Michelson bought 70 head of Shorthorn cattle at the big farm of Wells, Stone and Company at Gladwin last week and drove them to his Houghton Lake farm.

Though potatoes are high and will be higher before planting, do not plant small run tubers. Get the best of seed. Plant less ground and secure a better crop.

Ex-Supervisor Wakeley came into town Monday with six big wildcat heads. He is a mighty hunter and gets there just the same as though he had two arms.

The little folks sleigh ride Saturday came near having an accident in the collision of two of the teams, one of which got too gay after leaving its load at the church. One little boy got quite a cut on his cheek, but it is not thought to be serious.

The flagrant violation of the liquor law in this village last Sunday will result in prosecution, and it is hoped that a good lesson will be learned.

Mr. Will Johnson and Miss Buck of Maple Forest were married a week or two ago, but just where, when or by whom we are not informed. We wish them joy just the same.

There was a pleasant birthday party given Monday evening at John Olson's the mouth nor squealing. He said Blaine gave him a bottle of turpentine and that he kept it in his pocket.

Luella Tiffin, sister of Charles Tiffin said she saw the boys and two dogs and that she saw them trying to make the dogs fight and chased them off the porch. Didn't see anyone use turpentine nor the dog slide.

On the following day, Friday, the trial of Blaine was held when substantially the same testimony was offered as was given in the Bennett trial. The jury in that case rendered a similar verdict as was offered in the Bennett trial.

Charles Tiffin, the third party charged in the offense, changed his plea from not guilty to guilty and each was fined by Justice Kraus $5.00 and the costs of prosecution, the latter amounting for Bennett and Blaine to about $30.00 each and for Tiffin, who pleaded guilty, about $11.00. Added to this, of course, will be the cost of their attorney's fees.

The home talent play "All a Mistake" presented by the American Legion Post, under direction of Owen Cameron, Monday evening at Temple theatre, was very successful.

The play held many comedy parts, of which Miss Harris, taking the part of an old maid, had a large share. She possessed a great desire for love and answered an advertisement in a newspaper for a husband. The lucky man was Bentley Klingensmith, as Ferdinand Lighthead, an Englishman. He was funny and clever in his English accent and actions.

Owen Cameron as Lieut. George Richmond, is deserving of much praise for his dramatic ability and for making the play the success it was. His supposed wife, Eleanor Thomas, was exceedingly clever in her impersonation of a crazy woman.

Russell Robertson as Capt. Obidiah Skinner, seemed gifted in being able to impersonate older characters. He is always good. Lucilla Colten, as Nellie Richmond, as usual played her part very well. Emerson Brown, as Richard Hamilton, took his part splendidly. And last but not least we must remember Miss Fox, as Nellie McIntyre. She was very comical and took her part most cleverly.

Those who were so unfortunate to not see this play may well feel that they truly missed a rare treat.

in honor of the 18th birthday of his daughter, Augusta. An enjoyable time for the thirty guests.

Comrade Chalker came down Saturday to attend the regular meeting of the G. A. R. post and incidentally to partake of the banquet given by the W. R. C. in the afternoon.

At circuit court last week a man petitioned for his citizenship papers. He could not read or speak English and Judge Connine refused to admit him to citizenship.—Oscoda Press.

Thirteen members of K. O. T. M. drove over to Lewiston Saturday and made fourteen Sir Knights in that village. All expressed themselves more than pleased with their fraternal treatment.

Six members were added to the W. R. C. Saturday after which a sumptuous banquet was given by their friends. This grand organization is appreciated by our citizens as it is practically the only society here attending to practical charity.

About fifty of our little folks members of the Junior society C. E. had a jolly sleighride around town Saturday, ending with a picnic supper in the basement of the church.

The annual township election is near at hand. Have you canvassed the situation in your mind and decided who is best fitted for the several offices to be filled?

It is time that every farmer knows just what he will plant, and should be sure his seed is ready and it should be best. There is an annual loss of millions of dollars to farmers from planting inferior seed. Many are in the habit of waiting till they are ready to plant before securing what they want and then planting what they can get most conveniently.

Circuit Court.

Judge Sharpe, circuit court, Tuesday for the special term, and on all of the calendar the case Rasmussen vs. Rasmussen, trespass, was reported and tried out of court. Leighton vs. Judge, assumption, is continued by stipulation.

Township of South Branch vs. Head et al, was tried by a jury who were directed by the court to deliver a verdict for the plaintiff for $111.20.

LaFave vs. LaFave, divorce, decree granted.

Beaton vs. Beaton, divorce, decree granted.

The petition of Emma Hadley for vacation of part of village plat was allowed.

The usual decree was given the tax cases and court adjourned in the morning.

FORD WANTS NASH FOR PARTNER

Following article appeared in the March 9th issue of "The Cleveland Times."

Motor trade circles are displaying a great deal of interest in rumors to the effect that Henry Ford is desirous of taking into partnership with him Charles W. Nash, president of Nash Motors, Inc. Mr. Nash is re-organized a some of the foremost automobile executives of the country and an alliance with Ford would undoubtedly result in the creation of probably the strongest and largest motor vehicle producing organization ever contemplated. Friend of Mr. Nash, who recalls that only a few years ago he declined an offer of a million dollars cash to devote part of his time to the Pierce-Arrow Motor Company over a period of one year, feel that Henry Ford will have to bid pretty high for his services.

Seven Points of Supremacy

1. The sole leather used in "FOOT-FITTERS" is of the best quality obtainable. Every inch is cut from standard outside leather.
2. "FOOT-FITTERS" are the only shoes in the world having full length ramps and sole leather-box toes. This feature prevents ripping at the tip, and makes a smooth outer and inner surface.
3. The insoles are shoulder channelled so that they fit tightly against the sole. There is no need or room for a cork filler. A small piece of duck is used to prevent squeaking.
4. The Calfein inside counter pocket is of great value, for it saves the wear on the socks. There is no rough surface to rub against.
5. "FOOT-FITTERS" heels are 1/4-inch longer than generally used. They give additional support to the arch and increase the comfort and wear of the shoe.
6. The vamp is reinforced with 8-oz. duck. This absorbs the moisture from the foot, this keeps the vamp from cracking and holds the shoe in shape.
7. Edmonds' "FOOT-FITTERS" shoes are called "FOOT-FITTERS" because they fit the foot snugly. Built on combination lasts they support the foot like a doctor's bandage. "FOOT-FITTERS" give Comfort, Service and Appearance.

WHY THERE ARE MORE THAN A MILLION

Buick Torque Tube Drive

The fine engineering in Buick motor cars is demonstrated by the torque tube drive. This is a steel tube which transmits the drive from the rear wheels instead of adding this important duty to the burden of the rear springs. The torque tube also encloses and protects the propeller shaft. This type of construction also holds the rear wheels in alignment regardless of road conditions.

The news of the cyclone that swept over northern Indiana and Illinois late last night was reported to us by Henry Stephan, who received the news over the radio at his home.

Mrs. Albert Knibbs entertained the "Jolly Eight" club at her home Wednesday afternoon. The ladies played "500" after which a lunch was served by the hostess.

Bring your catalogue and be convinced that you can buy shoes cheaper at home than you can in Chicago, and say nothing about the postage and inconvenience, at Olson's Shoe Store.

Billy McLeod entertained twelve of his boy friends at his home Monday afternoon in honor of his ninth birthday. A jolly time was had playing boyish games. Billy's mother treated the lads to a fine lunch.

Mrs. Clarence Brown entertained several lady friends at her home Thursday evening. After enjoying playing "500" prizes were won by Mrs. Herbert Gothro and Mrs. Oliver Cody. Refreshments were served.

The fire department was called to the home of William Cardinal, Monday forenoon, when one of the inner walls of the house was discovered on fire. It caused quite a bit of excitement in the neighborhood, but by the quick response of the fire department and the aid of neighbors a bad blaze was prevented.

The high school boys and girls basketball teams, together with a bunch of loyal supporters journeyed to Gaylord last Friday, games having been scheduled with the high school teams of that place. The girls were victorious taking their game by three points, the score being 34 and 31. The boys didn't fair so well, their points amounting to 9, while Gaylord succeeded in making their total 19. Both were good games. The second teams of both places played a preliminary and local fans, who accompanied the teams say this game was full of thrills. After the games the crowd remained and enjoyed dancing until the midnight train.

W. R. C. Gives Legion Home

POST ENTERTAINS WITH BANQUET ON EVE OF PRESENTATION.

For some time it has been quite generally known that the hall, known as the G. A. R. hall was the possession of Grayling Post American Legion No. 106, the Womens Relief Corps No. 102 having made the Post a gift of the property upon disbanding, but the deed had not been turned to the new owners until Monday evening. On this evening the members of Grayling Post gave a banquet complimentary to the W. R. C. to show their appreciation of the gift and extend their thanks to the ladies for their generosity. The guests consisted of the Legion members and their wives and lady friends, and the members of the Corps and their husbands.

Mrs. John Benson prepared the banquet which was an elaborate affair, and consisted of dishes that were fit to set before a king. Nothing was spared, and together with finely prepared American dishes, Mrs. Benson added some of her delicious Danish dishes. The menu consisted of fried chicken, veal loaf, mashed potatoes and gravy, pasticcini, Danish cabbage, hot rolls and butter, Danish apple cake with whipped cream and coffee. Everything was delicious and seasoned just right. Some of the members of the Post did the serving and did a good job at it.

Immediately following the dinner, Mrs. Mary Fehr, treasurer and acting secretary of the W. R. C. arose and in her pleasant manner, made a few appropriate remarks and handed the deed of the property to the Legion, Post Commander Alfred Hanson receiving the document and responding with a vote of thanks. In addition he told of some of the things the Legion as a whole are trying to do.

This did not end the evening's entertainment, as complimentary tickets to the home talent play "All Mistake" were passed among the guests. As it was almost time for the entertainment to begin most everyone went to the Temple to take in the performance.

The Legion members are delighted over their gift and are enthusiastic to get the building in better shape by making needed repairs inside and out. Their membership is not large, but what they lack in number they make up by each one being an ardent worker for the Post's interests. They are worthy of the gift and the W. R. C. are to be commended for their thoughtfulness and generosity.

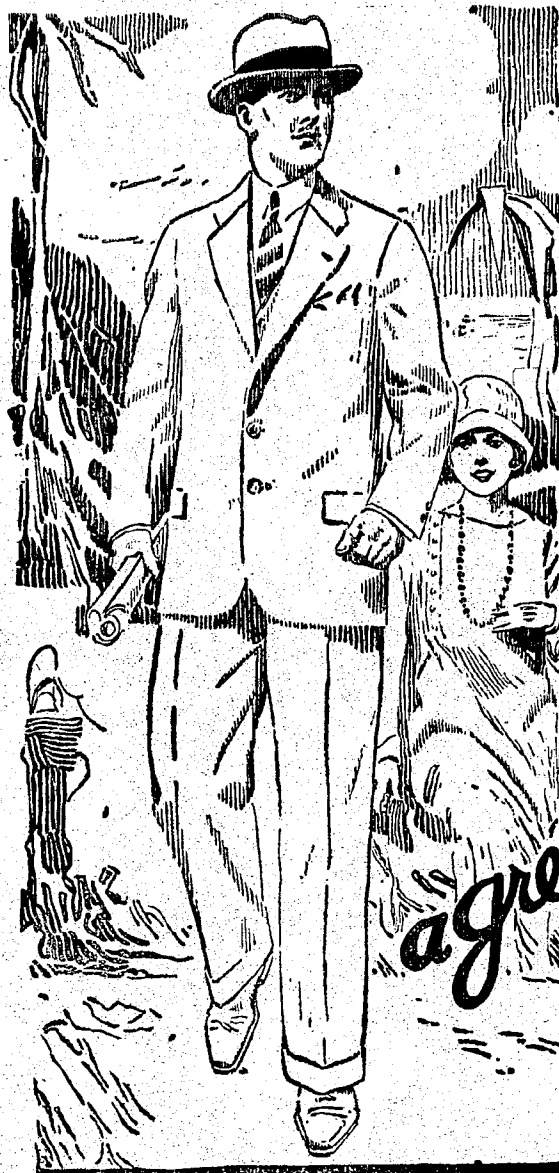

The W. R. C. No. 102, which is an old organization did much relief work in Grayling during its life, especially years ago when its membership was large. Many charitable deeds were done. In the last few years the membership of the organization had dwindled down to but a few members, and as there are so many other organizations doing charitable work in Grayling they decided to disband, which they did the first of the year.

Post G. A. R. and the W. R. C. at one time jointly owned the property, now the possession of the American Legion, and when Marvin Post disbanded in June 1920 they decided their portion over to the W. R. C. At present there is but one member of Marvin Post still living and that is O. Palmer.

Of the charter members of the W. R. C. Mrs. Margaret Chalker and Mrs. Rebecca Wright of this city, and Mrs. Isabelle Jones of Chehalis, Wash., are still living.

The members of the W. R. C. wish to thank the members of Grayling Post for the fine affair given in their honor, and assure the boys that it was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

FREDERIC HAD LIVELY CAUCUS.

It seemed to be in the air at Frederic that it was time that Chas. Craven, veteran supervisor of that township, should be retired. There was considerable agitation on the highways and bye-ways and naturally a large crowd was present at the caucus. 152 votes were cast, or about twice as many as were in attendance at the Republican caucus in Grayling Monday night.

C. S. Barber was being backed to defeat Craven, and it may well be said that Barber is eminently fitted for the job, and is a good citizen. Craven has served the township for about a quarter of a century, except for one year when Barber beat him out.

Things looked bad for Craven this spring and he himself admitted it but the majority of the voters evidently didn't think so, and in the caucus gave him about double the number of votes as were given for his opponent. It appears from the vote that the people endorse Craven's administration as supervisor in no uncertain terms.

SYNOPSIS:—Lee Anderson, Royal Canadian Mounted Police sergeant, is sent to Stony Range to arrest a man named Pelly for murder. He is also instructed to look after a gold mine, and the head of the "Free Traders," illicit liquor runners. At Little Falls he finds Pelly is credited with having found a gold mine, and is making a fortune. At the hotel where he is staying, he meets a girl, obviously out of place in the rough surroundings. A half-breed, Pierre, and a companion, Shorty, annoy the girl. Anderson interferes in her behalf. The girl sets out for Stony Range, which is also Anderson's objective. He overhauls her and the two men with whom he had traveled the night before. She is suspicious of him and the two men are hostile. Pierre and Shorty ride on Anderson and the girl following. In the hills the road is blown up, before and behind them. Anderson, with his horse, is hurled down the mountain side, senseless. Recovering consciousness, Anderson finds the girl has disappeared, but he concludes she is alive and probably in the power of Pierre and Shorty. On foot he makes his way to Stony Range, where he finds his companion of the day before, and Rathway, with a girl, Estelle, a former sweetheart of Anderson's, who has almost wrecked his life. Rathway strikes Estelle, and after a fight Anderson, with Estelle's help, escapes with the girl. Anderson's companion's mind is clouded and she is suffering with a dislocated knee. Anderson sets the knee, and makes the girl comfortable as possible. He has a broken rib.

"Where am I? What has happened?" she asked.

Lee saw at once that she had no consciousness of anything that had occurred since the catastrophe, and probably it would be some time before the memory of that came back to her. He must protect her against the shock of the realization until she was able to bear it.

"Your horse threw you," he answered. "You hurt your knee and cut your head. You will have to keep still for awhile, and we shall have to remain here for a few days. Are you in much pain?"

"My head aches, and my knee—yes, it does hurt a little. It isn't broken, is it?"

"It was dislocated. I had to set it."

"Oh!" A faint color crept into her cheeks. There was a little silence.

"Are you a doctor, then?"

"No, I was just a humble orderly and stretcher bearer on the western front," Lee answered. "But you see, it had to be attended to, and so I—well, I did it. After you've drunk some tea I'm going to be an orderly again and rebandage your head."

"But my hair—my hair!" You cut my hair off!" she exclaimed, putting her hands up to her head. "Was that necessary?"

"You were caught by the hair under your horse, and there was danger that it might roll on you at any moment," Lee explained.

She patted her head again, felt the jagged locks about her neck, and looked at him with eyes in which a little mirth appeared.

"Thank you, Mr. Barber," she said. "I'm so glad you take it in that way. I was afraid you might find it difficult to forgive me."

"I might, only—well, you see, I've been thinking of having it bobbed for some time, only I never got around to it. I don't think you made a very clean job of it, did you?"

"They laughed, but she was weak, and after she had drunk the tea Lee had for her, she fell asleep until the middle of the afternoon, by which time Lee had completed the shelter over her head.

"Better," she asked, when she awoke. She nodded. "You don't look nearly so swiftness now," she said. "And I'm not in much pain. But will I have to lie here on my back for days?"

"As a matter of fact, the sooner you try to walk the better. I'm going to cut a serviceable crutch for you, and you'll be able to hobble about the camp just as soon as you feel inclined to."

"But you're not hurt, are you?" asked the girl. "Your left arm seems stiff."

"I hurt my side a little, but it'll be all right in a few days," Lee answered. She wrinkled her forehead. "Do you know," she said, "I don't quite remember falling. I was riding, you say? Were we both riding? Then where are our horses?"

"They were badly hurt," said Lee. "It became necessary to put them out of their suffering."

The girl was trying hard to remember. "A bad fall, then? How did it happen? A bad fall in this forest?"

"A little distance back. I carried you here. We fell down a rocky slope."

"Oh!" She remained silent a little, evidently trying to remember. Then she smiled.

"You have been wonderfully good to me. You know I trusted you and the minute I saw you, and I wasn't the least bit frightened, waking up and finding myself alone here in the forest with you."

"I hope you will be able to hear the waiting here," said Lee. "We'll go on just as soon as it's possible."

"But I'm not really in any hurry," the girl answered. "It was odd how recollected she seemed to be now, and how the future had ceased to trouble her. "It's so glorious to be in the woods again, and at this time of the year above everything. It's such a long time since I was in the woods before. I've been living in a big city, you know—nothing but blocks of houses and naphthalene and stone. I felt like a prisoner there."

And Lee wondered again at her acquiescence in this new turn of fate.

"Now—may I wash that cut in your head and tie it for you?"

"Yes, doctor," she smiled at him.

He bobbed the bandage, washed the cut in boiled water, and retied the strip of cotton about it. The girl was still too weak to talk very much. But it was the most wonderful thing that had ever happened to him, sitting there with her in that intimate companionship, forgetting that she had been at odds with him, putting aside all the memories of conflict, forgetting, too, that she was a woman, seeing in her only a comrade.

After awhile Lee made some cakes in the ashes of the fire, and cooked some bacon. The girl was able to eat a little, and he felt his appetite returning. Undoubtedly he had gone through the worst of it. Again they sat in silence, till the girl said:

"Do you know, I have forgotten your name."

He had not told her, but he said, "Lee Anderson."

Anderson was a common enough name in the district, and would convey nothing to her.

And as she seemed still to be fretting or puzzling, Lee laid his hand on hers and said:

"You mustn't worry. We shall go on just as soon as it's possible to."

"That's just what I've been wondering about," she answered. "It's very silly of me, but—where is it that we are going?"

And, as Lee looked at her in astonishment, she went on:

"It's curious, you know, Mr. Anderson, but I don't seem exactly to remember where we met, either, or why I left that place—where was it? That big city whose name I slipped my memory for the moment. Nor why we came to the woods—came back to the woods, you know," she corrected.

"And then, who am I? I had my name on the tip of my tongue a moment ago, and I'll know soon, I suppose, but it's—just now it all seems to be confused, somehow." And then Lee realized that her memory of the past was completely obliterated.

CHAPTER VIII

While Memory Slept

No, the girl had not completely forgotten, for it was not exactly a blank to her. She had a vague recollection of a number of things, but everything appeared to be shadowy and confused, and when she tried to piece it together, the fragments slipped out of her grasp.

It was in names and places that the lapse chiefly occurred, including her own identity, and it was this fact that gave Lee cause for meditation.

She had lived in the forests in childhood, she seemed to recall a visit to them of recent years; at any rate, she had all the woodcraft of one to whom the forest was home. She had been educated in a convent, she thought, and had been living for several years in a large city, studying.

She thought she had been studying to be a medical missionary among the Indians.

Thus she was not cut off from that association of habits, tastes, and experiences that goes to make the personality; she did not feel that she had lost very much, and it was always as if she were upon the point of remembering everything.

Out of this vague, blurred dream she had awakened to find herself in the woods with Lee, without the knowledge of how or why she had come there.

It might have been the concussion from the fall, but Lee, after pondering over the case, decided that it was much more like a case of shell-shock, and that the injury to her head had been only a contributing cause.

He made her a crutch next morning and by the afternoon, she felt well enough to hobble a few steps about the camp. The accident which had temporarily "unpacked" her memory, seemed to have wrought a strange change in her nature. She was no longer wildly anxious to push on to her destination; she accepted Lee as a fact in her life, and showed how completely she trusted him, despite the intimacy in which they were both living.

He was sure that her memory would suddenly come back to her completely. And, memory did come back in dreams, as with shell-shocked patients, but only to vanish with the waking.

At night Lee, lying near her beneath another rough shelter of boughs that he had made for himself, would hear her tossing and moaning, and occasionally uttering fragments of unintelligible sentences.

Day merged into day. Lee's rib was healing well, and the girl was beginning to set her foot to the ground. At first she was dependent upon him in nearly everything. He helped her to take her first steps without the crutch, leaning upon his shoulder. They were always together.

It was so wonderful a companionship. It was that comradeship of which Lee had always dreamed. And it was the more wonderful, perhaps, because the girl's severance from the past gave it a sort of unreality, as if it were a little piece of paradise which she had snatched for themselves out of the sun total of human happiness.

Soon she began to assume charge of the camp and the cooking. And Lee, lying at her feet, listening while she talked, or lying awake at night beneath his shelter, in the dread of hearing her moan, came to realize that his feeling for her was becoming something more than the mere enjoyment of her companionship.

He loved her, he sometimes admitted to himself; and when a word or glance of his would send the blood manning into her cheek, he dared to think that his love was returned. And now he cared no longer whether her memory of the past ever came back to her. Almost better to let her live in ignorance of all that had distressed her.

He began to dread the inevitable day when remembrance would come to blot out their paradise. Only a little incident would be needed, some little shock that would knit the ravaged ends of memory, and then—

Then what would lie before them? Another thing to be apprehended was the day, so near now, when they must leave their woodland paradise. Autumn had returned wonderfully, but there was a sharper tang in the air each morning, everything was dead and ice formed every night upon the pool beneath their little spring.

And it seemed now as if Lee's search for Pelly would have to be protracted through the winter months. If his inquiries at the mission proved fruitless, it would mean returning to Little Falls for a sleigh and dogs.

Then there was the matter of the Free Traders.

Lee would find his hands full soon enough.

"Do you know, Lee," said the girl one day, "I often feel as if I were on the very verge of remembering. And when I wake in the morning, just for an instant I feel a different person, as if I had remembered. And I am afraid of remembering. It is as if remembrance would bring back something terrible with it. Who am I?"

"You are just you," said Lee, smiling. "That's enough for me."

"Where did we meet?"

"In the range."

"I was alone? And then I had an accident and was thrown from my horse? And you, too? It is so strange. I know that I lived in a large city not long ago, and that I was so glad to get back to the woods. But where was it? That's the big problem that we have to solve, isn't it?"

She looked at him earnestly. "Lee," she said solemnly, "sometimes I hope I never shall remember."

She made no plans, leaving everything to Lee, and nothing was decided. By the middle of the second week, she could walk fairly well, her strength had come back, and the little period of elyrium was drawing to its end. It was inevitable that the problem should be faced.

For the first time she had accompanied Lee as far as the lake shore. There had been no signs of the Free Traders, and Lee was convinced that me the memory of him lay buried. No, love isn't like that; it doesn't lose itself like that. There is nobody but you—never anybody but you.

"But what I'm afraid of is that something else, something terrible may come between us."

"There's nothing else that could separate us."

"If you were engaged?" Lee would no sooner have deliberately stolen another man's sweetheart than his wife. To him love was a thing of eternity. It was either a very young man's view or a very idealistic one's; yet there are men of mature minds who hold that doctrine; that was why the affair of Estelle had broken his life.

"Suppose I had become engaged to someone I didn't love, Lee?"

"You couldn't. You don't think"—she felt thrilled by the consternation in his voice—"that you—you have, dearest?"

"No, I—I'm sure I haven't. But," she persisted, "I just felt curious to know what we would do, in case."

"Oh, then—why, I suppose we'd have to go to him and tell him that we loved each other, and then, of course, he would release you," answered Lee, looking troubled. "Still, we don't have to think of that possibility, dear, do we?"

"Of course not, Lee," she answered.

But again he saw that she knifed her brows in perplexity, and he knew that she was thinking, thinking, trying to reunite those ravaged strands of memory.

"You don't live in the range, Lee, do you?" asked the girl presently.

"No, I live at Manitowish. That's a long distance away. I've just come here on business."

"Won't you tell me what your business is?"

Lee hesitated. "Well, it's secret in a way, though I'm not under any pledge." His instincts were to tell her, and yet the training of eight years seemed to seal his lips against her.

"You see, I'm acting for others."

"Why, then, of course I wouldn't ask you to tell me, Lee," she answered. "Only I have a curious sort of feeling that your business may be bound up with me in some way, that perhaps it means your going into danger."

"I don't think there's much danger attached to it."

But she caught that "much" with alarm. "A little danger, Lee? You know, I couldn't bear you being exposed to danger. But—what is there beyond the range? You see, I've been talking to you about the range ever since I first heard you speak of it, and yet I don't really know where we are. It's curious, too, because for the first week after my illness, I didn't seem to care. Is there a city beyond the range?"

"No, thank God, all the cities lie behind us. Nothing but forest."

"But are you going to see someone, meet someone?"

"There's a Moravian mission three or four days' journey away."

"Oh, are you going there?" She was still unsatisfied, still looking at him in that wistful way.

"Yes, I am going to take you there, dear, and leave you in the care of Father McGrath, who is in charge of it. While I am away, he will take good care of you. He is a fine man, and well known for his work among the Indians. When the old priest died last winter, Father McGrath was sent for, all the way from Labrador to take his place."

"I think," he added, "that we shall be able to start in three or four days now. We want to be off before the weather changes."

"How long will you be away, Lee?"

"Perhaps a week—or longer."

And he wondered, as he spoke, whether it would be a week—or a whole winter.

He held her hands and looked into her eyes. "Have you faith enough in me to be willing to wait quietly there even if I should be gone for more than a week?" he asked.

"If I return, no matter how long, Lee," she answered simply.

"Given: if you remembered? No matter what you remember?"

"Even if I should remember. But, Lee"—the note of fear came into her voice again—"when the time comes that I remember, I want you with me. I am so oppressed sometimes—when I awake in the morning, always, I seem to have been traveling in my dreams all night in horrible places, among terrible people. I seem to have something that I must carry out, although it kills me. And then—I awake to you."

"But one thing I know beyond everything in the world, and that is that there could never have been anyone but you, Lee, dearest; never in the whole world. So take me, Lee, and shield me with your love, and be all in this world to me, for I shall never love anyone but you."

"I'll take you to the mission, dear, and when I come back, I shall take many ingenious ways of ascertaining time

In the sixteenth century, in polished Parisian society, there came into vogue the etiquette of the watch. One of the rules was that it should not be consulted in the salon, such an act being taken as an indication that the owner was tired of his company.

An ingenious watchmaker therefore brought out a watch with raised figures and a fairly solid hand. When the owner wished to know the time he slipped a surreptitious finger into his pocket, passed it along the pointer and read the hour as the blind man reads Braille.

The watch with the luminous dial, from which the time may be told in the dark, had a number of strange prototypes. One of the most curious was the timekeeper invented by a celebrated member of the French academy, M. de Villayer. He had constructed a clock which, face upwards, was attached to the head of his bed. In the place of the figures marking the hours, there were small cups which sunk into the dial, and were filled with 12 kinds of spices.

In the night M. de Villayer would moisten a finger, pass it along the pointer, dip it into the cup to which you sought with me. And you shall forget all your fears," answered Lee.

So they put their troubles aside, and all the uncertainties of the future, and were sublimely happy in their love.

Yet, happy as he was, Lee realized that it would be well for them when he had placed her in the care of Father McGrath at the mission. Only then would the load of anxiety be removed from him.

CHAPTER IX

Joyce Comes Home

In the middle of the night a wild storm sprang up, bringing with it a driving snow. Its violence blew down their two shelters almost simultaneously, involving them in a debris of boughs and branches.

They made light of their troubles. Lee succeeded in getting some sort of protection up, and the remainder of that night they crouched beneath it, happy, in spite of the snow that piled up all about them.

When morning came, they looked out on a white world. It was freezing hard, and the spring had dwindled to a thread in a basin of ice.

Lee very quickly had a fire burning and tea ready. But it looked as if winter had come to stay. They had had a rude awakening from their paradise. It seemed essential to push on as soon as possible.

In fact, without snowshoes they were likely to find themselves seriously inconvenienced in the event of a heavy fall. Lee meant to prosecute his inquiries at the mission, and, in case nothing came of these, to go to Little Falls, load up, and then return.

"I'm sure I'm well enough to start today, Lee," said the girl that morning, as they discussed the situation. "We could start off slowly, you see, and then if it did snow heavily, it would be much more of a strain on me later on, without snowshoes, than now, when the traveling is easy, wouldn't it? So we ought to try to get to the mission within a day or two."

Lee agreed, and they decided to push on slowly that day by the trail beside the lake. The mission was near the head of the lake, about two days' journey away.

Most of the contents of the pack were left behind. Lee had to travel as light as possible; but fortunately, his rib was fairly set, and the tight bandage which he wore around it eliminated serious danger of its breaking again.

When they stopped for the noon meal they had several miles to their credit. The girl's knee had given her no trouble, and both were jubilant.

That day they covered a good fifteen miles—almost a short day's journey. When they camped, the girl said:

"Do you know, Lee, I am almost certain that I have passed this way before. It all looks somehow familiar to me, and yet somehow as if I'd seen it in a dream. You remember that big rock we passed in the middle of the stream? Well, I had a feeling all the time that we should come to it as we rounded the bend."

"And you have no idea whether you ever lived in this region or not?" he asked.

"No, dear. I'm inclined to think, though, that I may have done so. Perhaps I was at school at that very mission, your spoke of. If I was, someone there will be sure to recognize me. I've got a feeling that I was studying in some big city—Montreal or Winnipeg, perhaps, to take up medical mission work here."

Well, it's a case of true love, all right. But when the girl remembers who she is and learns Anderson's mission—then what?

Production of Tea

The tea plant is cultivated in two varieties in China—Tea bohea and tea varietal in the provinces of Kwang-Tung, Fu-Kien and Che-Kiang. The tea plantations are usually formed in a deep rich loam, never on low lands, but on low hilly slopes. The leaves are gathered three times, in the middle of April, in the beginning of May and when the leaves again are nearly formed. The first gathering yields the finest and most delicate tea, but with considerable injury to the plant.

Double Stars

There are many stars that are double, says Nature Magazine. That is, they are made up of stars revolving around one another. Most of these pairs are of contrasting colors, one blue and the other gold, or one red and the other green. Albrecht is considered to be one of the finest of the pairs that are visible in small telescopes.

Words We Have Clipped

A few years ago a music-hall comedian made a great hit by clipping familiar words, and we still hear him imitating in colloquial conversation, London Tit-Bits says. People say "um pass" for impossible, "biz" for business and "push" for passion.

But such clipped words are not destined to appear in any dictionary, and we must go back much farther in the history of words to find that when we say: "He led the van," we mean the "vanguard," when we speak of a pair of van horses, we mean "cervan"; when we retire to the "drawing room," we ought to say the "with-drawing room; when we talk of a "hobby" we refer to riding a "hobby horse"; when we talk of sport we mean "disport," of "tending" we mean "attending," or a "cute" lawyer we mean acute, and of a "stiff" we mean a distillery.

Most of the golden opportunities are only played.

1—Tsuneo Matsudaira, new Japanese ambassador, who says he brings message of peace and friendship. 2—Glimpse of U. S. fleet at practice off California coast, preliminary to test of safety of our naval base in Hawaiian Islands. 3—Dr. William M. Jardine, being sworn in as secretary of agriculture.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Matsudaira Talks Peace—Senate Rejects Warren—Jardine Appointed.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

TSUNEO MATSUDAIRA, the new Japanese ambassador to the United States, arrived in Washington Wednesday, with gratitude in his heart for the preliminary welcomes he had received at San Francisco and at Chicago. His official welcome at the capital will be no less warm, for he is distinctly persona grata to the United States government. He comes of a great historical family of Japan, as does his wife; speaks English well; was secretary general of the Japanese delegation to the Washington arms conference; has held several important diplomatic posts in Europe, and was vice minister of foreign affairs in the Japanese cabinet at the time of appointment. In short, he is of the new school of Japanese statesmen. The ambassador's unofficial words en route across America explain why he is welcome at the capital:

"I bring greetings from across the Pacific to the people of America. I have had a splendid welcome to your shores. I am come on a mission of peace. I consider it a duty, and a privilege to do all that I can to strengthen the bonds of friendship between the United States and Japan. There is no question or difference of opinion that is not capable of amicable settlement if approached in the spirit of friendship. If the press of both nations will confine itself to facts—that will help."

MATSUDAIRA's temper of mind is appreciated at Washington. For as the new ambassador neared the Golden Gate he may have had glimpse of the great American fleet now practicing in the Pacific, preparatory to starting for the much-vexed Hawaiian maneuvers and a visit to Australia and New Zealand. And it will be remembered under what circumstances his predecessor, Masamune Hanihara, departed from Washington. It is also easy to recall that Japan at one time strenuously protested against our Pacific naval program for this summer. The main point of the great mimic war in the Hawaiian Islands between the attacking "Blue" fleet and the defending "Black" land forces is to decide whether the island of Oahu, our naval base in the Pacific, can be defended against enemy attack. With Oahu in our possession, our Pacific coast is safe from enemy attack, from the military viewpoint. Oahu can be defended against enemy attack, provided its defense is supplemented by an American fleet in the Pacific. But suppose an emergency keeps our fleet in the Atlantic—that's another and different story. Hence the importance of the coming Hawaiian maneuvers. Hence the importance of a Japanese ambassador who does not necessarily read into this mimic war the inference that the hypothetical "enemy attack" is on the part of Japan and does not necessarily see in the "friendship visit" of the American fleet to Australia and New Zealand a combination and conspiracy against Japan by the English-speaking peoples of the Pacific.

DR. WILLIAM M. JARDINE has succeeded Howard M. Gore as secretary of agriculture. There is naturally nation-wide interest in the new Agriculture department head. If experience guarantees fitness, Secretary Jardine should approximate 100 per cent efficiency. He has first-hand knowledge of agriculture and has a practical background, based on experience as cowboy, dairy farmer, ranch manager and man of affairs. At the same time his scientific attainments are large. When appointed he was head of the Kansas State Agricultural college.

Washington gossip has it that Secretary Jardine will stage a shakeup in the department. His public utterances would indicate that he holds views harmonious with those of President Coolidge on the solution of the problems of the farmer. In 1924 he was opposed to the McNary-Haugen price fixing bill.

The vast army of national park enthusiasts is anxiously awaiting a statement by the new secretary of the forest service to the efforts of the forest service of the Agriculture department to wrest the control of the national parks from the national park service of the Interior department. The thousands promoting the adoption of a national forestry policy and program also are eager for a statement.

THE struggle in the senate over confirmation of the President's nomination of Charles B. Warren to be attorney general is still on at this writing. It is a lively fight, with surprising features. Tuesday, while Vice President Dawes was "peacefully snoozing" at his hotel, the senate approached a vote. A desperate effort was made to get Vice President Dawes there in time to break it. As Dawes entered the chamber, Overman of North Carolina, the only Democrat who had voted for Warren, dramatically switched his vote. This destroyed the tie of 40 to 40, clinched Warren's defeat and made the automobile rush of Dawes more or less ridiculous. Whereupon the senate—at least the anti-Warren senators, if no others—gave Dawes the "ha, ha." They had got even with him for reading the riot act to them March 4.

President Coolidge Thursday surprised everyone, including the party leaders, by again sending the nomination of Warren to the senate. It was not made public whether the President had determined to force the fight or had acted in order to give Warren an opportunity to defend himself against senate charges. Incidentally, the Michigan house of representatives Wednesday endorsed Warren, as a reply to the statement of Couzens that nine-tenths of the people of that state were backing his opposition to the confirmation.

A late statement issued by Secretary Sanders at the White House was this: "At the request of the President Mr. Warren consented to allow his name to be presented again to the senate." Officials would not enlarge on the announcement, but some senators were of the opinion that Mr. Coolidge desired to assume full responsibility and draw a direct issue between himself and the senate on the question.

THE emphatic utterance by President Coolidge in his inaugural address as to the necessity of party loyalty and regularity suits the regular Republicans in both house and senate. The respective committees on committees have cleaned up in accordance therewith. The house demoted followers of La Follette on important committees. The senate, after long and bitter debate, in which the opposition was led by Borah of Idaho and Norris of Nebraska, demoted La Follette senators, the whole state being approved by a vote of 64 to 31. The test vote, 30 to 13, was on the effort of the opposition to substitute Ladd of North Dakota, a La Follette follower, for Stanford of Oregon as chairman of the public lands committee. Most of the Democrats here declined to mix in the party quarrel and voted "present."

So the insurgents are placed at the bottom of the lists in accordance with the numerical strength of their followers.

APPORTIONMENT of funds amounting to $2,600,000, appropriated by congress for the construction of improved roads and trails in the various national parks and national monuments, is announced by the Interior department. The Interior department appropriation act for the fiscal year 1923 contains an appropriation of $1,500,000 to be expended for the building of these much-needed roads and trails in the national parks and monuments under the jurisdiction of the national parks service. An initial appropriation of $1,000,000 for this road and trail work was made available in the deficiency act which was signed by the President December 5, 1924, making in all $2,500,000 available. These appropriations were made under authority of the National Park Highways act of April 9, 1924, which authorized the appropriation of $7,500,000 for the carrying out of a three-year road and trail construction program.

Of the $2,500,000 fund appropriated the sum of $453,000 has been allotted to Glacier National park, Montana, to draw Bay railroad. It consists of two point and is constructed in an arc of a circle on the right of the center of the highway, and intersects the first section of the curb 20 feet from the end of the ties. The curve is sufficient to make it necessary to slow down to get through.

which $410,000 is to be spent on the Transmountain road. This road is being built across the Continental Divide and when completed will be the first means of access through the park from the east side to the west by motor car.

In the Yosemite National park, California, $404,000, the next largest allotment, will be expended. Approximately half of these funds will be used in paying the El Portal road from the park boundary to Yosemite Village, connecting with the all-year highway which the state is building to El Portal and which is expected to double the automobile travel into Yosemite. The sum of $235,000 has been allotted to Mount Rainier National park and $168,000 has been allotted for road work in the Grand Canyon National park. The $140,500 allotted to Rocky Mountain National park, Colorado, will be divided between six different projects, all of them important. The famous Fall River road, the highest road in the national park system, reaching an altitude of 11,787 feet on the top of Rocky mountain, and the High drive from Fall River to Moraine park will get the larger share of these funds.

BARON AGO VON MALTZAN, the new German ambassador, was officially welcomed Thursday by President Coolidge. The new representative of Germany thanked the President for the work of American citizens in the economic and financial reconstruction of his country.

"I gratefully recall the generous activities of American citizens in social and cultural help, and the far-reaching work of financial and economic reconstruction, bearing an American name which has become historical," he said. "The last order of the deceased president of the republic was to express to you, Mr. President, his feeling of high personal esteem and his sincere wish for the welfare of the United States of America."

"It is for you to interpret to America the just aspirations of your nation," said President Coolidge in reply. "It is for you to promote the understanding which is the only sound basis of lasting peace. We have had a long history as a republic, and we hope that you may profit by a study of our experience of a century and a half of democratic government."

BRIG. GEN. WILLIAM MITCHELL, storm center of the controversy over air power as a national defense, will be succeeded April 27 by Lieut. Col. James E. Fechet as assistant chief of the army air service. Colonel Fechet is now in command of the air service flying school at Kelly Field, Texas. The appointment is said to be satisfactory to both Maj. Gen. Mason N. Patrick, air service chief, and Maj. Gen. John L. Hines, chief of staff, though he has not publicly indicated his stand in the controversy. General Mitchell says that his efforts to secure a unified air service, distinct from both army and navy, will be continued. Incidentally, Representative Florian Lampert of Wisconsin, chairman of the house committee on aircraft, issued a statement Wednesday that the investigation had indicated the position taken by General Mitchell.

DR. WALTER SIMONS Thursday took the oath of President of the German republic before the various diplomatic corps and members of the Reichstag in the Reichstag. Doctor Simons will hold the office until the elections name a new chief. All attempts to bring about a coalition of the right parties failed with the refusal of the People's party to back Herr Gessler's candidacy for the presidency. Herr Stresemann's objections, based on the fears of foreign opinion, were supported by his party. Germany goes into the election campaign with five candidates, none of whom seems able to secure the election on the first ballot.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE, arbitrator in the historic Tacna-Arica dispute between Chile and Peru which has threatened the peace of South America for a generation, announced his decision Wednesday that the ultimate disposition of the contested provinces must be by popular vote. This is a preliminary victory for Chile. The decision fixes the conditions of the plebiscite and provides for a commission of three, of which the American member is to be president.

The house of representatives, in committee of the whole voted almost solidly for Representative Fred Wade's suggested amendment to the Atwood highway construction measure. The bill proposed authorizing the state highway commission to build 500 miles of miscellaneous highway, subject to the approval of the administrative board. Representative Wade, of Allegan, suggested elimination of the administrative board, and substitution of the advisory board of the state highway commission.

WHAT STATE LAW MAKERS ARE DOING

Legislature Rebukes Couzens For Opposing Warren's Appointment

Lansing, Mich.

United States Senator James Couzens was rebuked for inaccurately expressing sentiments of the people of the state and of the Michigan Republican party, when he opposed confirmation of the nomination of Charles Boecher Warren as attorney-general.

Unanimously the house of representatives voted to suspend the rules and give immediate passage to a resolution repudiating Couzens as a Michigan spokesman, approving the presidential appointment of Warren.

The resolution was introduced unexpectedly by Representative Fred Wade, of Allegan. He explained that the Warren appointment was likely to be resubmitted at the senate in the next few days by President Coolidge, and that a frank statement from the Michigan legislators concerning their interpretation of general Republican sentiments in Michigan might have the effect of demonstrating that Senators Couzens and Ferris have not echoed their constituents' ideas and might swing votes from other states into the confirmation column.

For at least two years, there will be no death penalty for a murderer in Michigan. By a close vote, and yet the most pronounced of any on the subject in the last four years, the house of representatives killed the McEachron bill which would have made electrocution the punishment for a deliberate slaying in the state.

Eighty votes out of the house membership of 100, was the margin of victory for the opponents of capital punishment, the tally being 46 for and 54 against. Two years ago, there was three votes difference and four years ago, a single ballot prevented passage of the bill in the house.

The vote was somewhat of a surprise. The generally expressed sentiment of the house for several weeks indicated a preponderance of belief in the effectiveness of a death penalty as a crime preventive. The house had hooted down one anti-capital punishment speaker.

After an amendment to exclude milk and cream from its provisions had been included, the Curtis soft drink bill was passed by the House. Rep. William DeBoer, of Grand Rapids, offered the amendment. It was adopted without discussion. Mr. Curtis declared some time ago that he was not personally interested in the bill and had introduced it only as a favor to Charles E. Spencer, who had handed it to him. Mr. Spencer is chief soft drink inspector for the State Department of Agriculture.

At a joint meeting of the house and senate election committees the question of incorporating party enrollment in the state election laws was discussed and an agreement reached that any changes in the present election laws should be contained in separate bills and not incorporated in any measure codifying the existing laws. An informal poll of the two committees showed that the sentiment for and against party enrollment was fairly well divided.

The biennial attempt to increase the pay of the legislators was launched when Rep. Milton Palmer, of Detroit, offered a resolution suggesting $1,500 for the regular session and $10 a day, not to exceed 20 days, for special sessions. The members now get $800 for the regular session and $5 a day for special sessions. Indications were that the figures will be cut to about $1,200, when an effort to secure the passage of the resolution will be made.

The Bahorski Anti-Gambling Bill was passed by the Senate by a unanimous vote. Thirty Senators cast affirmative ballots. One member, Senator Elijah B. Howarth, of Royal Oak, was absent. There was no discussion. The Bahorski Bill is to take the place of the Voorhies-Bahorski Anti-Gambling Law, adopted by the 1923 Legislature, but knocked out by the State Supreme Court on a technicality.

The discovery that it will be impossible to approve the Condon joint resolution seeking amendment of the State Constitution to provide for the establishment of metropolitan districts in time to place it on the ballot in the April election has displayed final disposition of the measure.

A bill to remove the limit of $3,000,000 from the mill tax funds available to the University of Michigan was introduced in the Legislature along with the University Appropriation Bill. Rep. Charles A. Sink, of Ann Arbor, announced. Removal of the limit would increase the university funds on the basis of the 1924 valuation of the property, by about $375,000. The history of the mill tax dates back to 1873 when the Legislature passed an act providing that a tax of three-eighths of a mill be levied.

The house of representatives, in committee of the whole voted almost solidly for Representative Fred Wade's suggested amendment to the Atwood highway construction measure. The bill proposed authorizing the state highway commission to build 500 miles of miscellaneous highway, subject to the approval of the administrative board. Representative Wade, of Allegan, suggested elimination of the administrative board, and substitution of the advisory board of the state highway commission.

Health and good looks —the reward of internal cleanliness.

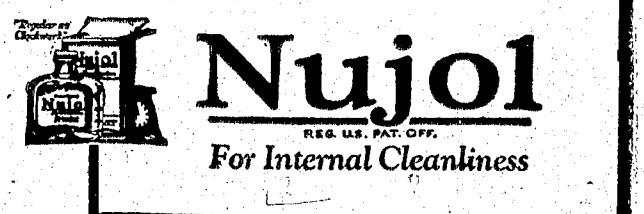

IF YOU do not keep clean internally your looks and health are undermined together. A clogged intestine breeds poisons that reach every part of the body. These poisons ruin the complexion and undermine health. Constipation brings on such ailments as headaches, bilious attacks and insomnia, each of which saps your health and vitality.

Avoid Laxatives—say Doctors

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition.

Medical science has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water, it is harmless.

An Ordinance granting to the Grayling Electric Company, a Michigan Corporation, the right to construct and maintain conductors for conducting electricity in, along and upon the streets, alleys, and public places of the Village of Grayling, and to conduct a business of distributing and selling electricity therein.

ces of the Village of Grayling, and to Conduct a Business of Distributing and Selling Electricity Therein.

ORDINANCE NO. 35.

The Village of Grayling Ordains: Section 1. Consent, permission and authority is hereby given, granted and vested in the Grayling Electric Company, a Corporation organized and doing business under the laws of the State of Michigan, its successors or assigns, to manufacture, generate and use electricity and to construct, operate and maintain poles, wires, cables, conduits, and other fixtures for the purpose of transmitting, distributing and supplying electricity through, in, over, upon and under the streets, lanes, alleys, highways, and other public grounds and places in the village of Grayling, in the state of Michigan and in the territory that may hereafter become a part thereof, and to furnish, supply and deliver electricity for lighting, heating, power, and other purposes to the said Village of Grayling and to the inhabitants and users of electricity within the limits of the said Village of Grayling as now or hereafter established.

Section 2. The poles, wires, cables, conduits and other fixtures provided for under this ordinance shall be erected or placed under the supervision of the Council of the Village of Grayling, or such officer as it may designate.

Section 3. The said grantee, its successors and assigns shall furnish, supply and deliver all the electricity required by the said Village of Grayling and other inhabitants and other users of electricity within said Village at such rates, tariffs and charges and under such conditions and regulations as may be from time to time fixed and established by the Michigan Public Utilities Commission, or its successor, upon application of either party.

Section 4. It shall not be required of the said grantee, its successors or assigns, to extend its lines within the limits of the said Village of Grayling for the purposes of supplying electricity for any use, unless the income derived from the sale of current due to such extension shall be in the opinion of the grantee, the Michigan Public Utilities Commission, adequate and proper return for the capital expenditure required for such extension.

Section 5. This franchise shall continue in full force and effect for a period of thirty years from and after its acceptance, in writing, by the said grantee, which said acceptance shall be filed with the Village Clerk of the said Village of Grayling within thirty (30) days from and after the approval of this ordinance by the electors of the Village voting thereon at an election to be provided.

Section 6. This ordinance and the grant herein contained shall be submitted to the electors of said Village for their approval or rejection at a special election to be held in said Village for that purpose, and shall become effective when the same has been approved by a vote of three-fifths (3/5) of the electors voting thereon at any such election.

Passed by the Common Council of the Village of Grayling this 9th day of March, nineteen hundred and twenty-five.

Attest: R. D. Connine, Mayor.

J. Chris Jensen, Village Clerk.

WHEREAS, this Common Council of the Village of Grayling have this 9th day of March, nineteen hundred and twenty-five, passed and adopted a certain ordinance, entitled:

Best Acre on the Farm.

The acre that should be set aside for the farm garden can easily be made the best, most profitable acre on the farm, if handled with good management.

In the first place it should be a long, slim piece of ground, 8 by 20—quarry or a well, saw and a spot with a horse in the cool of the evening, and much hard work saved.

One family can draw unbelievable amount of food from such a garden. They can begin by digging the parsnips with a grub hoe, about this time of year.

There can follow asparagus, pie plant, young onions, radishes, lettuce in rapid succession.

Peas, sweet corn and early potatoes will follow rapidly, with strawberries if all are forced along by plenty of cultivation and liberal use of fertilizer.

Liberal use of proper commercial fertilizers makes crops grow larger, with fewer culls and makes them mature earlier.

Four sacks of acid phosphate per acre wonderfully help gardens, and the potato crop.

Three sacks of phosphate per acre will make corn larger, have fewer bunnies and ripen earlier.

Two to three sacks per acre (according to the fertility of the soil) sowed with oats and sweet clover, cause the oats to have more straw, the grain to be plumper, and will improve the hay crop that follows.

Glad to Meet You.

The county agent office is over the Grayling Post Office. There, he will be glad to meet people from Frederick and from Grayling, as well as from the country, to discuss your crop and lawn and garden trouble and to take your order for acid phosphate and lime.

Remember we are obliged to send for this within a few days.

Why Do So?

Why come to town week after week, from the country, and not call on the county agent, then say that he never did anything for you? How should he know your problems unless you tell him?

Why should residents of Grayling come to the post office, day after day, and never bring their fruit tree, shrub, lawn or garden problem to the county agent?

Us your County agent. That is what he is for. People from Frederick and from Grayling, as well as from the country, to discuss your crop and lawn and garden trouble and to take your order for acid phosphate and lime.

means within the owners ability to employ if he can have the confidence and the co-operation of the owner.

Test, Don't Guess.

The county agent, while getting one of the new soil testers from the Agricultural college for a man, got three extra ones. With one of these any farmer, boy or girl above twelve years of age, can test soil for lime requirements as well as a college professor can do it.

This test shows whether the soil needs lime or not, and how much to the acre—science applied to farming.

These testers are for sale at cost, twenty-five cents each.

Enterprising School Teachers. I wonder what school teachers will have the gumption to procure one of these sets for the purpose of interesting their pupils and their parents in their soil.

Through pupils interested in testing soil, many farm homes in the country could be transformed, as the tests lead parents to realize the great need of lime that exists on their land.

Vast Improvement.

The first soil tester I ever saw included enough apparatus to fill a Department of Soil Science, of the Department of Soils, University, a good tester just fills a small satchel. It did not seem possible that one could be made smaller, yet here we have a neat, dependable little rig that a man can put into his vest pocket.

At first, the college sold it for a dollar, then for fifty cents, now, for twenty-five cents.

Many are in use. Get yours.

GRAYLING POST QUINTETTE DEFEATED BY MT. PLEASANT.

The Mt. Pleasant American Legion basket ball team invaded our city last Saturday evening and succeeded in defeating our local Legion team 30 to 27 in a game that was evenly played throughout.

The visitors caught the home team on an off night or else the verdict would have gone the other way.

Reynolds, Johnson and McPhee were way off color when it came to scoring points. Reynolds and Johnson were usually may be depended upon for the bulk of the scoring, could not locate the hoop except for one basket apiece in rapid succession.
